

The Key Questions.....

Becky Chantry

How old are you?

23

Where do you live?

In Shortlands, an easy fifteen minute (uphill) walk into Bromley

Do other members of your family attend BPC?

No; although I have some family in Bromley they don't attend church, and my parents live out in Spain

What is your occupation?

Well, since I got a degree in Spanish and Russian from Cambridge last year it seemed an obvious choice to go for three more years of exams by training to be an accountant – I'm working with Baker Tilly in our Public Sector department,

Do you have any particular hobbies and interests?

Where do I start? Reading might honestly be classed as an obsession rather than a hobby; I have about 1500 books, with everything from historical fiction, magical realism, science fiction, biographies, political and religious treatises... I also love the theatre, and more active pursuits like swimming and hiking. And of course my mood each week will depend on how the Gunners have fared!

What are your musical tastes?

Pretty varied. I'm not a fan of manufactured pop but I like soul, folk and rock, generally I just try and find new stuff on the web I can put on my Ipod.

Which radio station do you listen to?

Well I used to always listen to Terry Wogan on Radio 2 but the rather abrupt transition to working life has meant I'm now often out the house before he comes on... I mostly listen to radio now via the net, I like the option of listening to people debating Latin American politics or the latest hits from Spain.

What are your favourite television programmes?

Again I don't have a huge amount of time to spare for TV. I try and catch Newsnight, but apart from that it's mostly British drama – Spooks, Dalziel and Pascoe, and Doctor Who of course.

Which famous living person would you like to meet and why?

I don't really buy into the whole fame thing... I don't find the eccentric lives of strangers at all interesting. There's a few film directors like Peter Jackson or Pedro Almodóvar, whose work I find really intriguing and I'd like to discuss that with them, or perhaps a writer like Isabel Allende because I think I could learn so much. But I don't find the current crop of politicians very interesting and I've been fortunate enough to have already met some really inspirational people like Stephen Hawking.
